KMSpico Activator is software that lets you activate your Windows PC for free.Q: How do I "once again" get various elements in a multidimensional array? I have a multi-dimensional array $members with the following contents: Array ([0] => Array ([0] => John [1] => Smith) [1] => Array ([0] => Joe [1] => Dunn) [2] => Array ([0] => Jane [1] => Doe)) I'm trying to find a way to extract individual elements from the "arrays" contained within $members, and it's seems like a foreach loop is the best way, but I don't know how to "once again" loop through the array so I can continue to get the values out of it. My end result is to get the first name and last name for each member in $members. A: foreach($members as $member){ echo $member[0]; echo $member[1]; } or you can use a loop to get them from different indices foreach($members as $i => $member){ echo $member[0]; echo $member[1]; } Also you should get the array values like this $members = array('0' => 'John','1' => 'Smith','2' => 'Jane','3' => 'Doe'); and use it like this $member = $members[$i]; echo $member[0]; echo $member[1]; MPAO-labeled noradrenergic axons 6d1f23a050
